

COVID-19

New Zealand Government

Testing permitted workers crossing alert level boundaries

To safeguard areas of New Zealand at lower alert levels, and to ensure COVID-19 is contained - surveillance testing of permitted workers crossing the alert level boundary is going to be implemented immediately.

- | Use  | Awareness  | Setting up   | Checking test status   | Ongoing support   |
|--|--|--|--|---|
| 1. Employers can find out if they are impacted by the Alert Level Order by visiting the Ministry of Health website . | 2. Employers will use evidence of permitted travel, such as BTD, work order or employer letter. For more information please visit here . | 3. FAQs and clear guidance is available here .   | 4. Some larger employers may engage a private provider to do on-site testing. Visit the Ministry of Health website for more information. | 5. No infringement notices will be issued, workers will be unable to cross the boundary until they have a test. |
|  |  | 6. If workers require an exemption from being tested due to medical reasons, then they will need to get this from a health practitioner and have the proof on them if stopped by Police. |  |   |

Checklist

- |  |                          |                                    |                          |
|--|--------------------------|------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| Review processes so clear of obligations   | <input type="checkbox"/> | Confirm all tests are arranged     | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| Notify all impacted workers of obligations | <input type="checkbox"/> | Monitor test records of workers    | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| All workers have business travel docs      | <input type="checkbox"/> | Ensure workers know proof required | <input type="checkbox"/> |